Neelam Verma

My name is Neelam Verma and I work at Sainsbury's in Leicester where I have been a union rep and equality rep for over 15 years. I have been asked by many reps across the sector to stand as a candidate in the forthcoming UNITE Executive Council election for the Black, Asian and Ethnic Minorities seat in the Food Drink and Agriculture sector.

I am an experienced workplace rep with Regional and National Committee experience in our industry along with Regional and National BAEM experience. I therefore believe I have a very good understanding of the issues and challenges that ethnic minorities and all workers in our sector face.

As well as fighting for equality issues and working to make sure the voices and interests of minorities are heard and listened to, I will also make sure that the views and interests of the whole sector are listened to and taken into account when the Executive makes any decisions. My other experience in regional and national women's committees will undoubtedly assist me in this respect.

We face enormous challenges as a sector and a union in the workplace with the uncertainty of Brexit.

I pledge that if I'm elected I will campaign effectively;

- Oppose continuous increases in union fees
- Ask for your opinions
- For decent wages and a minimum wage that is at least equal to the living wage;
- Against the increasing use of temporary workers and zero hour contracts;
- Against the austerity agenda and the vicious attacks on our NHS;
- For a strong campaign which protects workers rights during Brexit;

Our Union needs real change now rather than empty promises.

Please help me make the change by voting for me, Eduardo Nascimento and Neil Durkin.
